MachineryLink Names Winner of Combine Naming Contest

Kansas City, MO (September 28, 2009) - MachineryLink, Inc., the leading provider of combine leasing programs to agricultural producers in North America, announced the winner of the MachineryLink / Farms.com "Name the Renegade Combine" contest.

Jared Gray, Bedford, Iowa submitted the winning entry "ROCK the Renegade Combine". Gray received a $1,000 VISA giftcard for his winning submission, selected from among nearly 200 entries. The announcement was made by Mark Gabrick, MachineryLink's Director of Marketing, at this year's Farm Progress Show in Decatur, Ill.

The 26-year-old Gray farms with his parents and is also a credit analyst at a local bank. He graduated from Northwest Missouri State in ag business, and was a sales agronomist for three years before returning to the family farm. He continues to develop his own farm operation.

"We really liked the name Jared submitted, and have used it as an acronym for 'Reeper Of Corn Kernals,'" says Gabrick. "We also like the analogy to 'solid as a rock,' which is how our customers feel about the service we provide."

The company owns over 265 combines and works with growers in 30 states. "These are field-ready combines, brought to growers when they need them," says Gabrick.

"We're thrilled Jared is the winner, and who knows, he may be a future MachineryLink customer. Regardless, we're happy to be helping an innovative young farmer," says Gabrick.
